In the pocket of my Tuxedo coat, said one of the New York four hundred-that's the coat I wear when I go out to dinners-I always keep one of the small vials of Ripans Tabules. There is one in the pocket now. I always look to see that it is there before I go out of an evening. After the dinner I always swallow a Tabule and then I know that I shall have no trouble that night and no headache next morning. With the Tabules in my pocket I always feel free to eat and drink everything that is put before me at a dinner.
